To Our Referring Providers

One of the many goals of our practice is to have a close relationship with all of our referring providers. We are frequently in contact with many of you when there are abnormal results on a patient's exam. Over the next few months, we will be trying to get to know our referring providers and their staff on a more personal level. In an effort to try to meet more of you in person, we have been scheduling breakfast or lunch meetings with many of you. If you receive a call from one of our staff, please know this is something the radiologists are asking them to set up. If you do not yet have a time set up for us to come meet you, please feel free to contact our office and ask for Rachel. She will make sure we set up a time to come to your office.

In addition to trying to meet more of you in person, we are also offering a service that will potentially save your office time and money at no additional cost. If a patient is supposed to have a mammogram or ultrasound, does your office spend hours and hours tracking down which patients actually had their imaging exams done? If they missed their exams, were they rescheduled? Imaging for Women can set up a weekly report to be sent to your office summarizing which patients we received an order for, if they've scheduled, if they were seen, and follow up in the event of a missed appointment. All of this information is provided in an easy to read report, which can save your office hours of work. Many offices have already taken advantage of this service and have noted how helpful it has been, particularly for tracking and reporting on Medicare patients. Please contact us and ask for Phyllis Fulk or Kristina Jones if you wish to discuss this further.
